TULIPS

Plant tulips from October to December. Late October and November is the most favorable time although planting may be done as late as early January. Plant tulip bulbs six inches deep in sandy soil and 5 inches deep in heavy soil. Place a handful of sand under each bulb and water thoroughly. Our tulips are imported from one of the best Holland growers and are all of the largest, "selected top" size.

TULIP AND DAFFODIL SHOWS

Thousands of enthusiasts attend our Tulip and Daffodil Shows each year. We are now adding a new section to our gardens and the 1934 shows will be more beautiful than our previous displays. More than 150 rare varieties of Daffodils will be in bloom in early March. A planting of Botanical Tulips and the sensational new Mendel and Triumph Tulips will add interest to our April Tulip Show. Definite dates for both shows will be announced later. We invite all flower lovers to be our guests for these shows. The gardens of "Old Adobe" are especially lovely in Daffodil and Tulip Time.

NARCISSI or DAFFODILS

Narcissi give better results in California gardens than any other class of spring flowering bulbs. They will grow in either full sun or light shade, although in warm sections of California the best results are obtained with late blooming varieties if they receive some shade during the hotter part of the day.

Plant bulbs from October to December. Set them 4 to 6 inches apart and 4 to 5 inches deep, planting the largest bulbs deepest. When the flowering season is over, allow the foliage to ripen. If foliage is removed before ripened there will be few blooms the following season.

Our Narcissi bulbs are of the largest size and are all "double nose"; that is, each bulb will produce two or more flower stalks.
